Clean Up Day To Be Observed April 24, 25

Clean-up day has been set in Murray by the City Council for April 24 and April 25. Homeowners are urged to cooperate by cleaning up their homes and garages of trash, debris, or unwanted items, and it will be picked up by city trucks. Paul Buchanan, City Street Superintendent, said today that all trash on the south side of Main street will be picked up on April 24, and trash on the north side of Main street will be picked up on April 25. Residents are asked to place trash in some kind of container so that the job can be accomplished as easily as possible. All old newspapers or magazines should be tied up in bundles. Trash, cans, ashes, etc., should be placed in boxes or some other container. It is no, planned to shovel any ashes or other trash that is just dumped on the curb. Residents are asked to place the things which they wish to be carried off at the curb side, between the sidewalk and the street. City trucks will begin their rounds about 7:00 a.m. It will be all right to place the trash at the curb the night before, Buchanan said. He urged residents to remember that the south side will be picked up on April 24 and the north side on April 25.

Prince, Princess Sail On Honeymoon

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
VILLEFRANCHE, France, April 20 (AP) — Princess Grace and Prince Rainier sailed today toward Spain on the Mediterranean honeymoon. Friends predicted the young couple would return to pictures within a year if a baby does not intervene. The royal couple apparently spent their wedding night aboard Rainier's yacht, Des Juvante II, anchored in a peaceful cove just 100 yards offshore from the prince's villa on Cap Ferrat, ten miles from Monaco.

Lights Burn Late
The yacht burned late in the villa but the yacht sailed on the flood tide this morning without any boats putting out from shore except for those containing curious newsmen. All the newsmen got a shrug from the crew of the yacht.

The yacht passed off Cannes at 11 a.m., bearing seaward on a westward course that would take it toward Spain. Original reports said the honeymooning couple would first visit Italy, but Italian officials were only confused by the conflicting reports.

Other reports said the yacht might put in at the Balearic Islands but the Hollywood actress and her prince were so anxious to escape the crowds they left their destination purposely vague.

The flower-bedecked yacht rode out of Monaco harbor Thursday afternoon to the cheers of thousands and the bursting of skyrocket and high winds and rainier headed for Villefranche's quiet harbor.

There have been reports that Grace is not a good sailor or rough seas but even those reports were disputed by some. Almost before the yacht was out of sight of the thousands who jammed the waterfront to see the couple depart Grace's friends were predicting a return to the movies for the Hollywood queen.

Federal Agents Crack Down On Bookies, Gamblers

By United Press
Federal agents said today they will make more arrests in a nationwide crackdown on a vast network of "lay-off" bookies.

Raid on bookie joints and gamblers in five cities Thursday gave the agents valuable information on how local horse parlors are linked through thousands of long-distance telephone calls, officials said.

Federal tax agents paid surprise visits to gamblers in Pittsburgh, the Chicago suburb of Des Plaines, the Boston suburb of Revere, Fort Worth, Tex., and Newport, Ky.

Arraignments Scheduled Today
They made at least 16 arrests, most of them on charges of failure to pay the 10 percent tax on bets. Arraignments were scheduled in most of the cities today.

Pittsburgh was the "men's prime target and the center of the 'lay-off' network, federal agents said.

In gambling parlance, "lay-off" bets are those which are transferred from one bookie to another when he has received more bets on a particular race or event than he wishes to handle alone.

D. Malcolm Anderson, U.S. attorney at Pittsburgh, said the core of the network was an ice cream parlor known as "Mamie's Grill and Ice Cream Store" at nearby New Kensington.

Mamie's grill handled 3,836 telephone calls from points throughout the country and Canada during a three month period, Anderson said. The bookie joints which were raided in other cities all laid off bets with Pittsburgh gamblers, he said.

Hint Of More Raids
Internal Revenue officials hinted that more raids are planned and Anderson said the four Pittsburgh raids Thursday turned up evidence which can be used in later arrests. He also said a grand jury investigation of the Pittsburgh network after all arrests are completed Anderson said.

The T-men arrested only three suspects in Pittsburgh and made their biggest haul in Des Plaines, where eight men were picked up. The Des Plaines gamblers had apparently been forewarned. They were busy burning gambling records when the 20 T-men turned up at the crowded wire room located above an automotive supplies company.

Senate Passes Tax Bill

By THOMAS E. GISH
United Press Staff Correspondent
FRANKFORT, April 20 (AP) — The Senate today gave formal approval to Gov. A. B. Chandler's bill to increase state income taxes by 37 million dollars during the next two years.

The bill passed 21 to 15, with but a single vote to spare, since a constitutional majority of 20 votes was required because the measure carried an emergency clause.

Eighteen Democrats and three Republicans voted for the measure, while 12 Democrats and 3 Republicans voted against it.

Senate action on the bill was delayed more than an hour while administration leaders went out to round up absentee senators to bring them in for the roll call.

When the Senate convened at 10 a.m., only 30 members were present and Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield sent the sergeant at arms searching for the remaining eight senators after it appeared that not enough administration followers were on hand to pass the measure.

The vote followed a stormy, hour-long debate which echoed a similar debate in the House last week.

Madisonville Sen. Clarence Maloney, a Democrat, charged that Chandler had failed to keep faith with the voters who elected him. Maloney said, on the strength of Chandler's promise there would be no new taxes.

Maloney charged that Chandler took the stump throughout the state saying, "Take a look at me. I'm the only governor who ever cut taxes."

Maloney said he was opposing the income tax bill to help Chandler keep the no-tax promise which he made.

Harrodsburg Democrat W. A. Wickliffe opposed the bill on grounds Kentucky voters prefer a sales tax. Wickliffe said that in recent weeks as an attorney he has filled out 350 income tax returns in his law office, and that in each case he asked the person whether he preferred a sales tax or an income tax. He said the score showed more than 90 per cent favoring a sales tax.

These booths which represent Scout Units from all over Western Kentucky and Tennessee will be on display from 6:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. on Friday, May 4th and from 1:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. on Saturday, May 5th. The big circus parade will be at 11:00 a.m. on Saturday, May 5th.

Use Of Prisoners On Road Work Draws Labor's Ire

FRANKFORT, April 20 (AP) — A state Department of Conservation official said Thursday that inmates of the State Penitentiary, Eddyville, will be used to build a blacktop, all-weather roadway at Kentucky Lake.

Elmer Rounds, an assistant to Commissioner Laban Jackson said "tentative plans now are to use able bodied prisoners from Eddyville who are idle now and who show aptitude for that type of work."

He said the plan called for building the road from the Tennessee state line along the west shore line at the high water mark to Kentucky Dam. The work would begin by May 30 if the plan receives the approval of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Rounds said Jackson and J. B. Wells, commissioner of rural highways, planned to confer with TVA Chairman Herbert Vogel at Knoxville, Tenn., today about the project.

At Louisville, Sam Ezelle, secretary-treasurer of the Kentucky Federation of Labor, said the KFL will "immediately lodge a protest" on the proposed use of prisoners on the road work, such labor will be used proves true.

Ezelle said he discussed a rumor that convict labor would be used on the road last week with Mrs. Ben Kilgore, director of the state Division of Parks. "She denied that there was anything to the report," he said.

Charles Allphin, commissioner of welfare, said he was unaware of the plan but added, "As far as my department is concerned it would be permissible as long as it didn't involve any type of organized labor."

Allphin, who was contacted at Eddyville, said, "As far as the 'able bodied' goes, I am doing some work here today and I know we need all of them right here to run this institution."

Fishing Off In All State Lakes

FRANKFORT, April 20 (AP) — Fishing has been off in most of the major spots around the state, but one bright note is the approach of the best period of the white bass run at Dix River.

The State Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources reported that conditions were improving for catching the white bass though water temperatures were still around a chilly 52 degrees.

Elsewhere around the state the fishing report is not encouraging. Crappie catches ranging from good to fair are reported at most of the major lakes. Dale Hollow is in the best shape with good crappie and bluegill catches — bass fishing is slower.

Fair crappie catches were reported at Herrington Lake, Kentucky. Kentucky anglers will have a chance to compete in the six Lake and Lake Cumberland fishing derbies sponsored by the department this year.

The fisherman landing the largest big mouth bass between May 10 and Sept. 15 will win the grand prize — an outboard motor, an aluminum boat and a boat trailer. There are other derbies planned for fishermen at various other lakes each month.

Well Rounded Athletic Program Is Held At Murray High School For Both Boys And Girls

By Preston Holland
Murray High School is a member of the Western Kentucky Conference, which is considered to be the strongest athletic conference in Kentucky.

We sponsor four sports, football, basketball, baseball, and track (being the only school in the Jackson Purchase that does) because we believe that sports are good for boys. Therefore, we should have as many boys participate as possible. About half of the boys at Murray High are on the varsity teams.

Our gate receipts, programs and concessions, support our athletic program financially and we do not receive money from any other source.

We have intramural sports for girls and boys and gym classes in which the students participate. They have gymnastics, tennis, volleyball, ball, as well as many other games. We believe that supervised physical exercise is desirable for most students.

Bulldozer Falls From Trailer On Top Of Truck

A bulldozer fell from a large truck this morning at Paducah, crushing a pickup truck. According to state police, the tractor trailer was going south on the Brookport bridge and was driven by Walter E. Avery of Three Oaks, Michigan.

As a car passed Avery on the bridge, the large truck moved over to give it more room, and the dozer struck part of the bridge, knocking the blocks from under it.

The dozer then fell to the left of the truck and fell on top of a pickup truck, that was traveling in the opposite direction.

Fred Bakhouse of Temple Hill, Illinois, driver of the pickup truck, was injured, however not seriously. The incident occurred about 10:00 o'clock this morning. Traffic was tied up on the bridge until about 1:30 this afternoon.

Drive Underway To Improve County Rural Water Systems

A drive is underway to improve the sanitary conditions of rural water systems in Calloway County. J. E. Walker, Manager of West Kentucky RECC, announced today.

Sponsored by West Kentucky RECC, water system dealers in the area and the Health Department, the drive officially got underway on April 19 when the Cooperative mailed a water system survey card to each of its rural members in Calloway County.

Each member receiving a card was asked to supply requested information concerning his farm's water supply and return the card to the Cooperative office.

West Kentucky RECC and the Health Department will use the cards to make a county-wide study of the rural water supply situation. The cards will also be used in a drawing for three electric water pumps which will be awarded by water system dealers to three Calloway County members.

West Kentucky RECC, the drawing will be at the Court House in Murray at 3 p.m., Saturday, May 5. To be included in the drawing, cards must be in the Cooperative office no later than midnight, Friday, May 4.

The winners do not have to be of great help to our Calloway County members. We hope they will give us 100 per cent cooperation by filling out and returning all the survey cards."

According to Health Department officials, this program is getting underway all over the Tennessee Valley.

"We're enthusiastic about the program," a Health Department spokesman said. "A large percentage of the rural water systems all over the country are contaminated. Our area is no different. Contaminated water is a serious problem."

"We can do something constructive about the problem," the Health Department official said, "with the cooperation of the people. We need to know just exactly what the problem is. We can get much of the needed information from the survey cards sent out by West Kentucky RECC."

Credit For Soil Bank Fought For

By United Press
Democrats and Republicans today struggled to claim credit for a proposed $12 billion soil bank for farmers.

House Democrats suddenly rushed to give President Eisenhower money to finance the soil bank program.

But they said he didn't need any authority—just cash. They insisted a Democratic-controlled Congress created authority to operate a soil bank under a law passed in 1933 and signed by President Roosevelt.

The Democrats pushed the appropriations bill through the House Appropriations Committee Thursday and scheduled a floor action on it next week.

Republicans protested. They said the old law isn't broad enough. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson called the appropriation bill a "red brick." He said the money "can't be spent."

Other congressional news: Uniforms — Chairman John L. McClellan (Ark.) of the Senate investigating subcommittee said the government has bought millions of dollars worth of military uniforms from "people of questionable integrity." He asked the administration to make certain that persons who invoke the Fifth Amendment about their activities do not get any government business.

Information — Chairman John E. Moss (D-Calif.) of the House government information subcommittee claimed Erwin Seago, director of Office of Strategic Information, "failed completely" to explain how his agency is doing what it is supposed to do. He accused the agency of an "abuse" of secrecy.

Air Power — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), a persistent critic of administration defense policy, said the Defense Department admitted it was previously wrong about the status of the defense program when it asked Congress for a big increase in air-power spending. He said it is "quite significant" the request for more money for jet bombers came just before a congressional study of American and Russian air strength.

Sailors — The Senate internal security subcommittee called Jan van Hoogstraten of the church world service to testify on the "defection" to Russia of five Soviet sailors who sought American asylum. The agency, affiliated with the National Council of Churches, was sponsor of the men in the United States. The sailors returned to Russia earlier this month.

JUST NEW SIGNS
Malcolm G. Little, TVA Manager of Properties for Kentucky Reservoir, said today that fishermen and others have been asking about road closed signs in the area. Mr. Little explained that the new signs merely replace older signs which have worn out, and that such replacements are being made throughout the Kentucky Reservoir area.

The signs were originally placed on roads closed by the State or County when the Reservoir was first filled. Their main purpose is to inform the public that the roads are no longer officially maintained. Any use is at the user's sole risk.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

It is a policy of long standing not to publish letters in the "Letter To The Editor" column unless we know who wrote them.

We do not always insist on a person's name being printed at the bottom of the letter, because there are sometimes obvious reasons for not wanting identity known.

We must know who writes the letters we print, however, for our protection against false statements, or even honest mistakes.

A case in point is a recent letter which appeared in the Memphis Commercial-Appeal signed: "American," which apparently misquoted figures from the 1949 World Almanac regarding the number of Jews exterminated by Adolph Hitler in Germany, Poland, and elsewhere in Europe.

The letter was written as an "answer" to a statement made by Abe Waldauer, World War One Veteran, in an address to the Memphis Exchange Club. Waldauer said in his speech that approximately 6,000,000 Jews were put to death by Hitler.

The letter claimed the World Almanac in 1949 indicated on page 204 that the Jewish population actually increased during the ten years from 1939 to 1949.

The letter brought forth a deluge of replies, including one from Waldauer, one from Rabbi Morton S. Baum, and even one from the publishers of World Almanac, quoting figures on the same page as that listed by "American" which shows the 1939 Jewish population in Europe at 9,739,300 and the 1949 population at only 33,920-100, or a decrease of 5,819,100. Taking the birth rate of the ten year period into account Mr. Waldauer's estimate of 6,000,000 deaths in Hitler's gas chambers is conservative, and chances are the number was substantially above that.

Rabbi Baum says in his letter he lost three grandparents, 11 uncles and aunts and 33 cousins who never harmed anyone, and many another American Jew can quote tragic figures like that.

The purpose of the letter written by "American" was to oppose the shipment of arms to Israel, and while there are undoubtedly very few people in this country, including Jews, who want war to break out in the Middle East, we believe most people favor everything we can do
 "short of war" to aid Israel.

"American" has every right to oppose shipment of arms to Israel. He does not have the right to misrepresent the results of the several Jewish purges executed by the late Adolph Hitler.

As it is against the policy of the Commercial Appeal to print anonymous letters, the identity of the writer is probably known. But the error, or misrepresentation, whichever it was, proves the newspaper policy is a good one.

TAILORED COATS popular in Marshall. A four-lesson project in tailoring has resulted in more than 125 wool suits being made in Marshall county this spring, according to Miss Dorothy Threlkeld, UK clothing specialist who presented the lessons to leaders with the cooperation of Miss Sunshine Colley, home agent. Thirty-eight leaders of homemakers clubs attended the training schools, and they in turn assisted the members of their clubs.

The professional looking suits being made are the result of several years of clothing work taught in the county, including pattern selection and basic construction, said Miss Threlkeld. The project will be concluded with a county-wide style show in Benton on May 4, an event in the county of National Home Demonstration Week.

Daylight Time Still Causes Trouble

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, (AP) — Time was didn't know what time it was. Readjusting ourselves to "daylight" as opposed to "God's time" is a comparatively simple matter these days.

Consider the plight of the folks back there before clocks were synchronized by time zones.

When it was noon in Chicago it would be 12:31 in Pittsburgh; 12:24 in Cleveland; 12:17 in Indianapolis; 11:50 in St. Louis; 11:43 in Dubuque; 11:39 in St. Paul, and 11:27 in Omaha.

Heaven only knows how many different time zones there were before somebody wised up to the fact that it would be a good idea to get the clocks to working as a team on "standard time."

In the old days the railroad had the very devil of a time.

Three Station Clocks
Take Buffalo. At one time there were three clocks in the railroad station. One time was for New York by which the New York Central operated. Another for Columbus and the other for local Buffalo time.

And going from Eastport, Me., to San Francisco, was somewhat of a problem. A person could wear out his watch running the hour hand back and forth. In the cross country run in the old days, he would have to twist the stem around 20 times.

In Kansas City, in the roaring days, each jeweler furnished his own "standard time." Competition dictated that no two clocks should

Five Sites Are Visited In Calloway

The five industrial sights in Murray and Calloway have stood inspection this week.

Men whose business it is to select plant locations for major industrial tour arranged by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, the Agriculture and Industrial Development Board along with other state agencies and conducted by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

As the plant site seekers boarded the bus in Owensboro, they were given a comprehensive technical guide to the Western Kentucky industrial sites — 141 in all. The guide had been developed and published by the A & I D Board. Its 85 pages contained a complete industrial survey of each of the 24 cities to be visited by the tour as well as maps showing the industrial sites in and near each city.

When the bus reached the Calloway County Line Dr. Ralph Woods, Verne Kyle and Bob Miller boarded the bus and answered questions and gave needed explanations about the county's industrial sites. This same procedure was followed throughout the tour.

In addition to the A & I D Board, the other sponsors of the tour were the Louisville Gas & Electric Co., L & N Railroad, Kentucky Utilities Co., Texas Gas Transmission Corp., West Kentucky Gas Company, Illinois Central Railroad, Kentucky Power Co. and Union Light, Heat and Power Co.

Chandler Bill Is Defeated

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The Senate defeated by one vote today Gov. A. B. Chandler's bill to curb the power of Kentucky cities to annex industrial plants.

The roll call on the bill was 19 to 13: one short of passage. The bill contains an emergency clause and required 20 votes.

Before the roll call was announced, two administration stalwarts, Sen. Joe Grace (D-Paducah) and Everett Beach (D-Jackson) switched from "aye" to "no" so they would be on the prevailing side and in a position to move for reconsideration of the measure.

As a result, the official roll call showed the vote at 17 to 15 on the bill.

The vote came after a stormy hour — long debate in which Sen. Arthur W. Grafton (D-Louisville) said there was no question but that the bill simply forbade annexation of industrial plants.

He said the bill has put one purpose, "to prevent Louisville from annexing the General Electric plant."

Grafton said that the bill would make it impossible for any Kentucky city ever to annex a plant even if the city grows and surrounds it.

"THE CAPTAIN was at dinner that night. He was a jovial old sea dog with a red face and bristling gray hair, and he laughed continually. The passengers, seeming to take their cue from him, were jolly too. Everyone seemed to be enjoying himself. Val thought. But she and Dirk had said practically nothing since they had commenced eating. Probably I am naive and stupid, she thought, and again she had a frightening feeling that she was getting well out of her depth. It was no longer any use trying to tell herself that all this was none of her business. Now she knew there was no escape. She was involved not only by circumstances but emotionally.

"You don't have to look at me all the time. You can glance toward the doctor's table occasionally," Dirk said dryly.

She felt the color rush up under her blue eyes. "Why should I want to look at him?"

"Why not? Surely he's the answer to any girl's dream, especially a young nurse's," he added cruelly.

Bruce was sitting at his table surrounded by his middle-aged harem; he looked unusually handsome in his dress mess uniform. The women were chattering eagerly to him and to one another. The storm had subsided. The good weather was with them. The cruise had really begun.

"There's a notice up on the board that there'll be dancing tonight," Dirk remarked.

"Oh, really?"

"Oh, really?" His smooth voice mocked her. "You're dressed for it, aren't you? And darn prettily dressed, as I said before. I didn't know nurses knew so much about clothes or where to buy them."

"A friend of mine is a mannequin. She's the same size as I am."

He pushed his plate aside and rested his elbows on the table. "Yes, probably you can fit a mannequin's clothes. You have the figure; all the same, you could never be a mannequin."

"Why not?" she asked, laughing. Never in her wildest dreams had she thought of herself as a mannequin.

"You're too much of a down-to-earth person, too essentially real. A mannequin must suggest a dream. The face of the girl wearing the gown must be as blank and characterless as possible. The customer must see herself in that gown and be unconscious of the mannequin. But your face is too vital. Val. They couldn't fail but to be conscious of you." He grinned and added, "You're a stubborn, rebellious little thing, as I've discovered to my cost tonight."

She smiled and she smiled back at him. She felt almost absurdly grateful that they were on friendly terms again.

During dinner Dirk kept the conversation going on a lightly entertaining vein, telling her amusing anecdotes about the various tenants on his father's estate. It was impersonal talk, the sort of chatter he and she might have exchanged had they met casually at a dinner party.

The upstairs lounge had been cleared for dancing and the ship's small orchestra was waiting to begin. Apparently the Captain had decided to make this a get-together dance for the passengers, with favors, a balloon dance, a Paul Jones and several Excuse-me dances.

In the beginning of the evening Val danced several times with Dirk. But presently, other of the men passengers came up and asked her for dances, and after the Paul Jones, when everyone was informally introduced, so to speak, Val found herself with an embarrassed look of would-be partners. Even the Captain, who seemed to enjoy himself more at the bar than on the dance floor, asked her for a dance.

"You're the success of the evening," Dirk said, smiling. "My idea to get you out of uniform was a good one, eh?"

She smiled back at him. "It's certainly a lovely party." But in her heart she asked herself, Was it a lovely party? Wasn't she all
